Star Broadens Report, Adding News Service

The Star today is broadening its news report with the wire service of the Chicago Daily News-Sun-Times, which recently was enlarged to include distribution of the Newhouse National News Service.

One of the more important aspects is addition of the Daily News Foreign Service, long regarded as a leader in its field.

The Chicago-based service is received by more than 100 newspapers in 33 states, Puerto Rico, Canada, Japan, Australia, Korea, New Zealand and Thailand.

In addition to the domestic and foreign report of the Chicago organization, the service now will include the unique Newhouse contributions.

These include background, perspective and analytical articles from Washington. Its 14 national news reporters cover a broad range of subjects, including the White House, Congress, the Supreme Court, labor, science, consumer affairs, urban affairs, transportation and the environment.

Also included are special articles in the sports fields, and criticisms of the lively arts.

Two well-known bureau chiefs with many years of Washington experience, Peter Lisagor for the Daily News and Carleton Kent for the Sun-Times, are among the top men in the new team.
